TECHNOLOGY PARTNERS NAMED LARGEST TEMPORARY STAFFING FIRM IN ST. LOUIS REGION BY ST. LOUIS BUSINESS JOURNAL

St. Louis, Mo., January 17, 2020 – Technology Partners has been named the largest temporary staffing firm in the St. Louis metropolitan area by the St. Louis Business Journal. Technology Partners recruits highly qualified information technology talent to augment its clients' staffing needs with technology professionals that deliver exceptional value and expertise. The ranking is based on local revenue from temporary/flexible placements made by local staff in 2018, the most recent year available.

Twenty-five years ago, Greg Nichols co-founded Technology Partners with his wife, Lisa, the company's CEO, with one goal: Revolutionize the staffing industry with a business model based on transparency, honesty, and integrity. As experienced IT consultants, they created a model focused on superior value for clients, with career control and high salaries for employees.

"Competing for highly qualified IT talent is tough, and it isn't getting any easier," said Greg Nichols, President, Chief Operating Officer and Co-Founder of Technology Partners. "We built this company with three things in mind: high pay, interesting work, and work/life flexibility. We strive to provide those opportunities to our employees. Being recognized as the largest temporary staffing firm in the St. Louis area tells me our model is working very well for us and for our clients."

Technology Partners provides premier IT talent at the best value through a combination of a low, fixed margin, exceptional service and quality candidates. The low, fixed margin enables Technology Partners to pay its consultants the best rates to deliver better talent and value to its clients. An intensive screening process, measuring both technical and interpersonal fit for each position, ensures the highest quality candidates for each client.

"Our reputation for quality and service is shown by our recent honor of Inavero's Best of Staffing Award® for client and talent satisfaction," Nichols added. "This prestigious award is given to less than 2% of staffing companies in North America."

Under Greg's operational leadership, the company has expanded to deliver IT solutions that are flexible, scalable, cost-effective, efficient, and productive. Today these tailored IT services and solutions for clients include artificial intelligence, managed IT services, cloud productivity, data and analytics, and other services that provide them with a competitive advantage.
